What is Phentermine?

Phentermine hydrochloride is the active pharmaceutical ingredient in Adipex-P. It belongs to a class of medications known as sympathomimetic amines, which act on the central nervous system to help suppress appetite. By helping you feel fuller for longer, it empowers you to make mindful nutritional choices and stick to your calorie-conscious meal plans with greater ease.

Brand vs. Generic Options

- Brand Name: Adipex-P is the recognized brand name manufactured with a unique resin complex designed for effective dissolution.
- Generic Alternative: Phentermine hydrochloride 37.5 mg is the generic equivalent. It offers the exact same active therapeutic benefits and clinical efficacy as the brand name, often at a more accessible price point.

Available Formulations and Dosage

The standard and most commonly prescribed strength is Adipex-P 37.5 mg.

- Dosage Form: Typically available as tablets or capsules.
- Standard Regimen: Most healthcare providers recommend taking one 37.5 mg tablet per day, usually first thing in the morning—either before breakfast or 1 to 2 hours after breakfast—to prevent any interference with your natural sleep cycle.
